Dear Mr. Saunders:

I would like to thank you for your participation on 7 November in the second running of the executive seminar on "Intelligence and National Security Policy". Your willingness to share your knowledge of the policymakers' use of intelligence before, during, and after the Arab-Israeli War of 1973 was extremely helpful to those who are intelligence producers. Since the session, several participants in the seminar have commented that your candid presentation and detailed answers to their questions were most useful in giving them a better understanding of how the Agency's product was received by officials of the Nixon Administration.

Your willingness to participate a second time in our executive training program is much appreciated.

Sincerely,
